John MacArthur on Christians, Business, and Gay Marriage

Scripture: Romas 1:26–27

Code: B140605

The homosexual agenda has no tolerance for disagreement. You've likely read stories about Christian wedding vendors being protested, sued, and even run out of business for refusing to participate in homosexual marriage ceremonies. Even some churches and pastors have come under fire for simply holding fast to their biblical beliefs and refusing to host or officiate a gay marriage.

This should come as no surprise to those familiar with Scripture. We should expect the persecution of our faith to get worse as society continues to protect and promote lifestyles of overt sexual sin.

But how should believers respond to this oppressively sinful culture? Can Christians ever do business with homosexuals, or does that automatically endorse their lifestyle? We recently asked John MacArthur those and other important questions about Christians and gay marriage. You can view his helpful answers in the video below.
